Dear NHS Patient Entrepreneur Programme Selection Panel,

I am pleased to support the application of Aubrey Ghose to the Patient Entrepreneur Programme.

I know Aubrey Ghose through my role as Community Involvement Manager at Richmond upon Thames Council for Voluntary Service, where I have supported them for two years in their capacity of being a member of the Richmond Health and Social Care Coproduction Group which we and the local authority jointly organise, with local NHS participation, in order to support strategic development through enabling it to be informed by lived experience and coproduction.

During this time, I have observed Aubrey Ghose demonstrate a range of qualities that I believe would enable them to benefit from and contribute to the NHS Patient Entrepreneur Programme. In particular, I have been impressed by their:

- Commitment to improving patient care
- Interest in developing new approaches to healthcare challenges
- Research capacity
- Creativity
- Problem solving skills
- Determination

I believe Aubrey Ghose would benefit from the NHS Patient Entrepreneur Programme because while they possess the qualities and skills detailed above, their professional career has been focused on branding and they currently lack the network required to apply and scale their “Connecting The Dots” proposal for the benefit of health and care systems. Participation will support their development by teaching them how to navigate NHS structures and providing the mentorship needed to transition from a service concept to a live service.

Based on my experience working with Aubrey Ghose, I am confident they would be a valuable participant in the NHS Patient Entrepreneur Programme, and I am pleased to support their application.

Should you require any further information, please feel free to contact me.

Yours sincerely,

Bruno Meekings
